Dems Marshal Strength

Urge Party Faithful to Up Efforts

Local Democrats, some 200 strong, paid tribute to candidates for the posts of justice of peace and constable with a corned beef and cabbage dinner Friday at Sail-Inn, Fox Lake.

Sharing honors with "St. Patrick" at Friday's outing were Joseph Ireland, Ingleside, candidate for justice of the peace of townships Antioch, Avon, Lake Villa, and Grant; and Donald Penfield, Lake Villa, who is running for constable. Both are candidates on the Independent Ticket.

In other party action recently, local party stalwarts paid tribute to local and county tickets and extended an invitation for fellow party members to back candidates in the April 4 elections.

The meeting at Mark Turner Hall, sponsored by the Democratic Club of Antioch, Democrats were welcomed by club president Ed Drisch, who extended an invitation to all potential members. Said Drisch, "There are many Democrats in Antioch and we extend an invitation to them (to join us). We will be glad to see more new faces at our next meeting."

Candidates for office next month were introduced by Rose Plechaty, Democratic Township chairman. They are: Philip Yager, judge of circuit court of Lake and McHenry counties; Joseph Ireland, justice of peace; Don Penfield, constable; Elmer Barnes, assessor, Antioch Township; Elsie M. Turner, clerk, Antioch Township; and Edward T. Hevredis, auditor, Antioch Township.

Local Democrats also stepped out ahead of their Republican opposites and needs no longer be content with a symbol. For Mark Turner, appointed to head the Ways and Means Committee, presented the club with a donkey, brays and all, to cheer the party in the political wars ahead. Observers feel it will be a long, cold day before local Republicans are able to swing a real, live elephant.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Betty Matejka, Mrs. Josephine Drisch, Mrs. Sophie Radakovic, Mrs. Elsie Turner and Mrs. Betty Haisma.

PTA Candidates

The Antioch Grade School PTA met Monday evening, and were shown a film by Coroner Robert Babcox, entitled, "Safety on the Highways."

The nominating committee announced candidates for next year's offices, as follows: for president, Harrison Brown; vice president, Mrs. James Mapletorpe; recording secretary, Stanley Anderson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bruce Barnes; treasurer, Mrs. Ray Toft, and for publicity and historian, Mrs. Gordon De Boer.

Shades of Ben Franklin - Migrating Balloon Captured in Maine Wilds

Benjamin Franklin, renowned among other things for his feat with a kite in an electrical storm—would have good reason to be proud of the long-distance aerial accomplishment of the store that bears his name in Antioch.

The Ben Franklin Store here, which held its grand opening last Nov. 17, sent up some balloons heralding the event.

Exactly three months later, on Feb. 17, one of the balloons was found in the far northeast corner of the nation—the town of Industry, Maine.

The story of the find was disclosed here this week in a letter received at the Ben Franklin store from Augusta (Maine) hunter, Roland A. LeClair.

"LeClair, was evidently quite impressed and amazed by the balloon's marathon journey. He wrote:

"For a matter of curiosity on my part, I am sending the enclosed balloon to its point of origin. This balloon was found in the town of Industry, Maine, which is about 45 miles from Augusta.

"I found it while hunting and after reading the address I looked up the map and found that Antioch is situated on the shore line of the Great Lakes, and according to the air current distance it covered a distance of 1,200 miles!! Could it be possible? I found it in a swamp area, so it's doubtful that it was hand-carried there!

"To satisfy my curiosity when was the grand opening, and would appreciate knowing whether the air current could have carried this balloon as far as this state."

Store officials here could think of no other explanation—the balloon's flight simply represented another victory over the elements in the tradition of the great Mr. Franklin.

Scouts to Collect Paper Saturday

Members of Boy Scout Troop 92 will collect newspapers throughout the village on Saturday. They request donors to tie papers secure in bundles and deposit them in front of their homes.

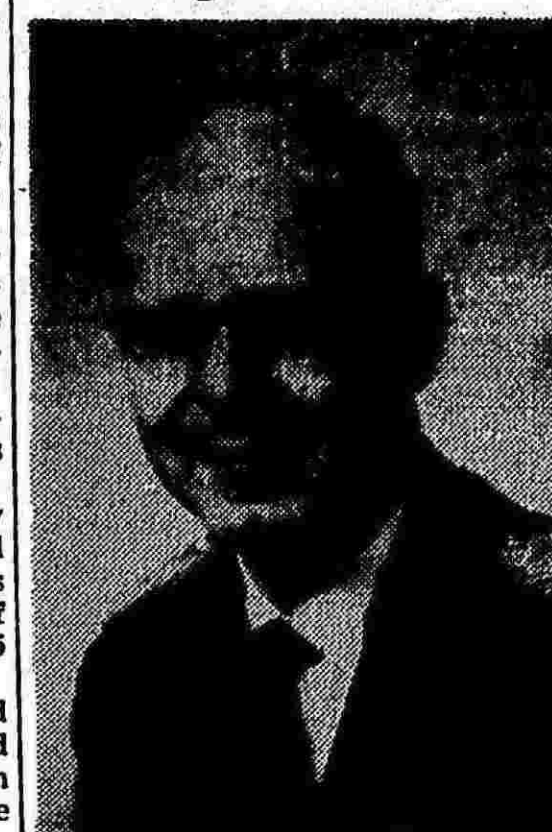

Paper collection headquarters may be reached by calling Antioch 451.

In School Race

Incumbents William Brook, Antioch, and Roger Prossie, Lake Villa, are unopposed for election to the District 117 school board. Filing deadline was March 18. Election will be held April 8.

Four are in the race for the grade school board; Mrs. Helen Kopriwa, seeking re-election, and new candidates Wesley Camp, Frank Feiler and Preston Reckers, Jr.

DePauw U. Band Concert Monday At High School

Conductor Hanna

Making its first swing into northern Illinois, DePauw University's famed band will present a concert at the high school at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

The band, under direction of Don Hanna, associate professor of music education, will provide a well-rounded program of music suited to a variety of tastes.

Sponsoring organization is the Music Association of the high school, which seeks to raise funds for the high school band and choir summer music camp at Bloomington, Aug. 13-18.

Director Hanna has instructed instrumental music in Alabama schools and is active in music circles. He is a member of the board, Indiana Music Educators Association.

Tickets for Monday's concert are available from ATHS band and choir students, the office and at the door. (See band as they will appear here, March 27, on page 6).

Three Fire Calls

The past week's soggy weather has kept the usual rash of grass fires to a minimum, judging from fire calls this past week.

Early Monday morning the fire department was called to the scene of a minor accident involving a truck at Highways 45 and 173 to wash gasoline from the pavement. Sunday morning the department extinguished a car fire in Channel Lake, Highway 173 and Lake Ave., and Monday afternoon, crews extinguished a chimney fire in a Channel Lake residence.

Mid-Summer Work Start Indicated

The $995,000 high school bond issue has been sold to a group of New York and Chicago firms at a low bid of 3.085652 percent, in a move that board members predict will save the district thousands of dollars in the years ahead.

The interest will be 2.5 percent through 1964; 3 percent through 1969; and 3.25 percent through 1972, concluding the 11-year period.

The rate is considered extremely favorable in comparison to a market that has ranged as high as 4 percent and above on occasions.

Successful bidders at last week's meeting were Kidder Peabody and Co. and Crittenden, Podesta & Co., of New York City; and Hutchinson, Shockey & Co. and National Boulevard Bank, Chicago.

Bids, from a field of eight groups of bidders, ranged from a second low of 3.07614 percent to a high of 3.12304848.

Plans and specifications are now underway, and when approved bids will be sought for construction of the new 29-room high school addition.

Primary addition will consist of a two-story, all-fireproof structure in front of the present plant facing Main St., and an addition to the present athletic plant adjacent to the existing gym. The addition will enlarge school capacity to 1100 students.

Construction is expected to begin in early July, it was disclosed today.

Chicago Bears Coach Headlines Sports Banquet

Chuck Mather, Chicago Bears backfield coach and former coach of six straight football champions at Massillon (Ohio) high school gave his formula for success on the gridiron before some 200 ATHS athletes and guests Monday at the 21st annual banquet for high school athletes. The annual event is sponsored by the Lions Club.

Year-around training, no ownership of motorized vehicles and no dating before school days are the rules built up by Massillon athletes of the years, Mather said. These are rules that have brought phenomenal success in football to this Ohio school. Mather succeeded Paul Brown, famed professional football coach of the Cleveland Browns, as coach at the school.

Highlighting the annual banquet was presentation of most valuable player awards in major sports. Awards went to Lance Keisler, football; Chuck Schuth, baseball; Ken Truelsen, track; and Les Herbst, basketball.

During the evening squad members of each team were introduced by the coaching staff under Ward Lear, athletic director. Present were Bob Walther, varsity football; Larry Leon, varsity basketball and baseball; Emery Chandler, track; and underclass coaches Roger Andrews, William Seemann, Stuart Good, Roy Nelson and Doug Risberg.

John Fields, Lions Club president, presented the awards, while Clarence Olson served as toastmaster, sharing the rostrum with Albert Dittman, ATHS principal. Program chairman was Bernard N. Osmond.

K of C Hosts Gage Squads at Banquet

Members of the St. Peters, Antioch, and Prince of Peace, Lake Villa, were guests of honor Tuesday night at the annual banquet hosted by St. Peter of Antioch Council, Knights of Columbus team sponsors.

A capacity group, including team cheerleaders and coaches, participated in the event from 7-9 p.m., March 21, at the Antioch American Legion Home.

Under chairmanship of Oscar Henrickson, Lake Villa, trophies were awarded members of the "A" teams and team photographs distributed to members.

MAYOR BACK IN TOWN

Village President Murrill Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham returned home yesterday morning from a three-week vacation in Florida.

FRANCIS J. SIMAL, psychologist for Special Education District of Lake County, and district secretary Mrs. Shirley L. Scheider confer on question of handicapped children at headquarters in Highland School, Libertyville.

A Pioneering Educational Effort

What Are We Doing for Our Exceptional Youth?

BY HARVEY L. PATTON
(Fourth of a Series)

Who are our exceptional children—those physical handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters who, but a few short years ago, were innocently condemned to a world of their own, untrained, uneducated, and often unwanted except by their immediate families?

What is being done to bring them further along the paths of training and learning so that they can join their peers in some measure of contribution to society and self.

These questions and others are being answered in this area by the Special Education District of Lake County, a cooperative, pioneering educational effort sponsored by cooperating school districts, which, with state sanction, now offer a new world of opportunity for the handicapped child.

Previous articles have outlined the operations of this special district, its training of the hard-of-hearing and the trainable Mentally Handicapped.

In this article, The Antioch News traces the activities of the district's social worker as she performs her triple tasks of contact between child, parent and school.

When Johnny was born the doctor told his parents that this baby would develop slowly. Just how slowly, no one knew. It was evident, however, that there was sufficient damage to Johnny's brain to affect his mental development.

His parents were fortunate that their doctor had recognized early evidences of the lad's handicap and had counseled them wisely.

Johnny needed the same treatment as other babies. He needed much patient handling, much loving and much understanding.

He grew as other children in appearance. Only he developed more slowly. His needs were normal, but he was slower to walk, slower to talk, and slower to respond to the environment around him. He fell a bit behind.

But his parents understood. They had been prepared, and they had partially paved the way for Johnny and his slowness by transmitting their understanding to Johnny's relatives and friends. And in true understanding, there is acceptance and assistance. And both are needed in full measure by the handicapped.

So when it came time for Johnny to enter school, his parents, his friends, and in some respects, Johnny himself, were well prepared.

If misfortune can have some degree of good fortune, Johnny is somewhat more fortunate than many handicapped youngsters. For their parents have failed to recognize the handicap... or they have refused to acknowledge a handicap. Some parents may suffer a guilt complex and shield the child from prying eyes. Others may not be aware of the avenues of public training available, and can not afford, or are reluctant to send the child to an institution.

Such children are virtually doomed from enjoying any semblance of a normal life and are deprived of many benefits.

To overcome these obstacles, the special district has retained a trained social worker, whose task is manifold. Basically, however, her duties can be summed up in the words "contact and counsel."

The social worker has as one of her duties the initial interview with parent, with child or with other referral source which is, in many cases, the first step a handicapped youngster may take toward a "new life."

The social worker may hear of a handicapped child who is not going to school. She may be referred to a child who is falling behind in school. She may be contacted by a worried parent. No matter the source, this trained, dedicated social worker then goes to work.

The social worker makes the district her daily "beat" visiting homes, community agencies, clinics, hospitals, schools—seeking out all leads on handicapped children.

Her trail may sometimes lead up a blind alley. For in some cases, she is requested to work with a youngster who is having difficulty in school. The difficulty may stem from any of many sources—home environment, physical and mental disturbances. Or it may be a truant caught in the throes of wanderlust or daydreaming.

No matter the cause, the social worker studies, consults and contacts, and follows through to a solution.

Budding Scientists to Exhibit

The laboratories of Antioch High School were bustling with activity today as inventive young scientists put finishing touches on some 200 exhibits scheduled for showing at the second annual Science Fair Saturday at the high school.

Exhibitors, including student scientists from schools in Lake Villa, Antioch and Oakland grades, Prince of Peace, St. Peter's, Emmons, Channel Lake, Grass Lake and Millburn, will show at the open house between 12-3 p.m. Saturday.

The show has been one year in planning, as the sponsoring organization, the Bi-Phy-Chem Scientific Society at the high school, began preliminary planning immediately following last year's successful show. The fair is planned, built and staged by students under direction of the Society, with Margot Ott as president and William Seemann, faculty advisor.

Featured in Saturday's public showing will be exhibits in chemistry, geology, botany, zoology, physics, conservation and mathematics.

According to Miss Ott, winning exhibits will compete in a district science competition next month in Evanston. Winners then will continue on to state and national competition. Judging will be by a committee of local businessmen.

Refreshments will be handled by the Future Nurses Association of the high school. There is no admission charge; the public is invited.

In other ATHS activity, S. James Fournier was selected as candidate for chairman of the Student District to convene in Evanston High School, and Margot Ott has been named delegate.

The district is composed of schools affiliated with the Illinois Junior Academy of Science. Each affiliate school is allowed one nominee and one voting delegate.

TALENTS OF LOCAL students will be on display in 200 exhibits at the second annual Science Fair Saturday at the high school. Here, viewers check a booth on toxicology. This year's public showing will feature chemistry, zoology, physics and similar subjects.

DEAR READER News Editorials

The Voter Has The Responsibility

The problems of needs of public education are a principal topic of concern to state legislators as they have been since the founding fathers of Illinois put public education of Illinois children into the 1870 constitution as a responsibility of the state.

Since that time the legislature has had to struggle with the problem of adequate financing for schools, qualification of teachers, administrative needs of districts, retirement for teachers, safety regulations for school buildings and buses, and a host of other issues.

With it all, however, the essential direction of the schools of Illinois have remained substantially in the hands of local communities.

And this is as it should be.

During the past 10 years, the state's share of the total school operation cost has increased from 22% to 27%, with 3% coming from the federal government, and 70% from local property taxes.

Property taxes have about reached the limit, if they haven't already passed it, and the pressures on local schools to take care of increasing numbers of children at higher costs per child continue to mount.

Thus, it is evident that the role of education and financing places an awesome burden on state legislature and local school administrators. They bear the burden of guidance — all bear the burden of financing.

To an important degree, you can bring influence to bear on the quality and cost of education through your nomination, your backing, and your vote. The April school elections are significant — today more than ever before, and it behooves you to get out and work for your candidate — and then to exercise your voting franchise at the polls.

The Inroads of Vice

Our neighbor to the south, DuPage County, has long prided itself on being one of the "cleaner" counties in the metropolitan area concerning organized crime. And not without reason.

County officials have, by and large, been a dedicated lot and have been active in the suppression of gambling — bingo up through bookies — and vice. Latest action in DuPage was last week's roundup of what appears to be a ring engaged in prostitution. This was on the heels of an arrest earlier last week of several narcotic peddlers.

This in itself, is a tribute to the alertness of law officials. What worries them, however, are indications that these illicit activities appear to be part of an organized drive to establish the more lucrative forms of vice and narcotics peddling in peripheral areas of Chicago.

The stakes are high. One West Coast gang was said by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics to have made each year a net of $50,000,000. In New York City alone the amount of narcotics sold illicitly each year is estimated to be valued at $100,000,000. The problem has worsened since Communist China has come to utilize the narcotics trade as a form of national policy.

Gambling, too, has its addicts. We have always maintained that "give us one nickel slot machine in an area where such devices are illegal, and the income from this one machine will bring in enough to keep us in diamonds without our ever having to turn an honest dollar in other endeavor."

The stakes are high.

Prostitution, traffic and narcotics and gambling, because of these high stakes, will always be with us in direct proportion to the population, the diligence (or its lack) of the citizenry and its law enforcement officials.

And they can't exist for one moment without the patronage of the citizenry and connivance of officials.

Combined Appeal or Single Fund Drive

The question of whether or not to consolidate all charity appeals in one united effort here was presented in the March 2 issue of The Antioch News.

The question, which seems to reach optimum discussion during the rash of fund drives and appeals which start shortly after the first of the year and continue into spring, is basically one of whether the donor would prefer to contribute through a combined appeal, or to independent campaigns conducted for individual charitable organizations.

There are sound pros and cons for both methods.

Under a combined appeal, the donor gives an amount to cover all contributions, and can, if so desired, designate specified amounts to individual charities.

Under the second method, independent campaigns are conducted by individual charities with the results depending on the campaign and zeal of workers.

Which method would you prefer? A ballot on the matter is contained on this page. Check your indication and forward to The Antioch News.

Courthouse Notebook —

BY LOU BURKIN

An unexpected change in the weather on Sunday forestalled a new outbreak of Lake County flooding judging from reports emanating from Libertyville.

Burkin

Reports indicated that the DesPlaines River, which had caused such trouble a year ago, was once more at flood stage and threatening the homes of residents of North Libertyville Estates.

The same conditions were reported north along the usually peaceful river and forecasts of rain, sleet and snow for the past weekend added up to a potentially miserable condition for those with homes and businesses along the river banks.

Fortunately Sunday dawned clear and bright to delay for awhile at least the destructive high water and perhaps Lake County will escape another year of the misery and expense of flooded homes and farms.

The close brush with another flood, however, should stimulate a sense of urgency in the special commission appointed by County Board Chairman Karl Berning to study flood control, drainage, sewage and other county wide problems and suggest a possible avenue of solution.

The commission has completed its hearings and study and should have its report ready for the county board at the next meeting of the supervisors.

This is a tremendous undertaking for the special board and it is unlikely that they can come up with a solution that will satisfy everyone or even solve all the problems facing the county, but we hope that the county board will do more than discuss the report if there is any chance of eliminating some of these county problems.

Reports from Springfield indicate that realignment of Congressional Districts in Illinois may get lost in the legislative shuffle which has characterized the present session of the Illinois General Assembly.

The House committee on re-apportionment is well-larded with Democratic-machine members who are Daley-bound to save as many Democratic candidates as possible at the expense of Republican Congressmen.

Of course, some action will have to be taken, but it looks as though the state will be realigned on partisan politics lines rather than on true representative lines. This probably means that Lake County will continue to be a big tail on the dog for some district.

There is always the chance that the legislators will battle it out so long that instead of electing Congressmen to represent particular districts in the state we will have 24 Congressmen-At-Large, a frightening prospect since it could mean scores of candidates on a state-wide ballot.

It's even possible to wind up with all of the Congressmen coming from one part of the state giving us even more lopsided representation than we already have.

It will take real statesmanship and leadership on the part of Gov. Kerner to evolve an equitable redistricting.

Scores of political futures are involved in the action of the legislature since some potential candidates for Congress from Lake County are anxious to start their campaigns, but don't want to waste the time and energy if it appears that Lake County will not be the dominate part of its district.

While bingo bills, crime commission bills, and the fight to change some of the Revenue Article are copying the big headlines State Rep. Robert Coulson, of Waukegan, is engaged in one of the more exciting activities of the session.

Rep. Coulson is on a special committee studying every suggestion proposed to cut the cost of state government. There are numerous crackpot ideas proposed each session, but out of the welter of ideas are emerging some with real merit and a possibility of saving considerable money.

Some of the ideas recommend the elimination of entire bureaus or departments, a suggestion regarded as subversive by many of the entrenched payrollers whose jobs are jeopardized by any insane ideas that the size of government should be reduced, but out of the agony of some of these may come real savings and financial salvation for the state.

SIDELIGHTS from SPRINGFIELD

By Rep. PAUL SIMON

By Rep. Paul Simon

Perhaps you've read newspaper accounts of unusual Republican-Democratic bitterness on the current Springfield scene. Unfortunately, there is much truth to these reports. In House debates there has been more shouting at one another than is usually heard.

But that is only part of the picture.

Among members of the legislature a friendship and feeling of comradeship develops that is also a part of state government, and a part of government that the public generally does not see and understand.

Two men may vigorously debate with each other over a measure and then go out and have dinner together. This does not mean that the debate was staged. It does mean that in Springfield (as in Washington) one of the things you learn quickly is that you have to get along with people with whom you disagree. Life would be unbearable hating people who disagreed with you, because sooner or later almost everyone disagrees with you on some measure.

Last week — a day after I became the father of a baby daughter — I wanted to leave Springfield for the evening to make a quick trip to Highland, Ill., to visit my wife at the hospital there. I had promised to speak that evening at a dinner meeting at a hotel in Springfield. Rep. Frances Dawson of Evanston graciously agreed to substitute for me, although she and I belong to different political parties and frequently vote in opposition to each other. This working relationship between people of opposing political parties is common.

Last year my car broke down in Pontiac while driving from a Chicago meeting to a Springfield meeting. I was to be the main speaker at a banquet in Springfield and was running on a tight time schedule.

Senator William Harris of Pontiac, not of my political party, lives in Pontiac and I called on him for help. He loaned me his car, offered to put me up for the night, and in general went out of his way to be agreeable. Part of this is just Bill Harris's friendly nature, but part of this is the feeling of friendship that grows among members of the legislature, a bond that non-members rarely understand.

This becomes important to government because it means that men and women who disagree can sit down after a debate, discuss their disagreements with relative calm — frequently come up with a compromise satisfactory to both.

Important legislation rarely passes the way it is introduced. The changes make passage of the measures possible.

These changes — or compromises — are not an immoral compromise of conviction, but a willingness to "take half a loaf rather than a whole loaf."

Bitter enemies have a hard time compromising. Friends can.

This working, friendly relationship among people who disagree is an important part of your state government.

Your State Senator Reports

An opportune time to visit Springfield is in this legislative year. The House of Representatives and the State Senate of the 72nd General Assembly are in session until June 30, meeting each Tuesday and Wednesday.

So, join the trek to our capital city, but do come soon — to enjoy a preview of springtime in central Illinois. Only a short drive from your home, Springfield is ideal for a spring vacation, combining education, enjoyment and economy of cost. But, plan your visit before your State representatives and senators are too busy to see and help entertain you.

The state capitol building should be your first stop. This imposing structure houses the offices of the governor, the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, and auditor of public accounts. These are your executive officers. The State Senate and the House of Representatives, the legislative branch of your state government, are also located in this building. Indeed, it is possible that you will see and meet each of the elected officers while you are in the "State House."

Be sure to make your presence known to your senator and representatives. We will be pleased to see you and to explain the legislative processes underway. You will hear debates on pending legislation and, as you look and listen, "bills" will be passed. We will present you to the senate and house officials. Sometimes, we are able to present you to the entire assemblage. This is a memorable occasion.

Sharing the same grounds as the "State House" (as the capitol building is best known) are the Centennial Building and the Archives Building. The former was erected to mark the 100th anniversary of Illinois' admission as the 21st state in the union. The State Library, the Illinois Historical Library, the State Museum and the impressive "Hall of Flags" are located in the Centennial Building.

The executive mansion is within walking distance. This is the home of Governor and Mrs. Kerner and the home of Illinois governors since 1856. Thousands of Illinoisans pour through the doors of the executive mansion each year. It may be that your Representatives or Senator can arrange a tour of the mansion for you.

So, if you are in Springfield on Tuesday, the buildings and offices listed above should be on your itinerary. Wednesday is the day to visit Lincoln's Home, Lincoln's Tomb, and the village of New Salem.

Just three blocks from the Governor's Mansion stands Lincoln's home. Here in the heart of Springfield is the place where Lincoln lived as an Illinois Lawyer, a member of the General Assembly, and an unsuccessful candidate for the United States Senate. From this home, he went to Washington as President of the United States. The residence is almost exactly as it was when the Lincoln family used it. Much of the original furniture occupies the place it did in those days.

North from the "State House" is Oak Ridge Cemetery, where Lincoln's Tomb marks the historic resting place of Illinois' greatest citizen. The cemetery covers many acres of natural scenery and lends beauty to the majesty of the great monument which draws freedom lovers from all over the world. A visit here will bring new understanding of and appreciation for that earlier Illinois legislator whose place in world history is unequalled by any other American.

About 20 miles from Springfield is New Salem. The village has been restored to the same condition as when Lincoln, in his youthful 29's lived here. It is most important that one walk these streets where Lincoln walked, worked as postmaster, law student, surveyor and young state representative. This settlement of log houses, log stores and other log buildings, on the banks of the Sangamon River, unfolds vividly the "life drama" of "Abe Lincoln of Illinois."

Come to Springfield, your first free Tuesday before June 30. Children will appreciate such an educational tour. There are accommodations available in motels, cabins and tourist homes at reasonable cost. And there are always hotels — with their lobbies providing "ring-side seats" for a glimpse of public figures.

Start Library Memorial To Aid Area Boy Scouts

LAKE VILLA — The Lake Villa township library is pleasantly bursting at the seams, according to Mrs. Ted Belke, librarian, who reports that registration and circulation figures are moving up each month.

"Book lovers and readers seem to be an especially generous group of people," said Belke. Latest donors include Mr. and Mrs. Clare Appleby, Mrs. Shirley Bere, Mrs. William Thompson and Charles Wullenbuecher. Donations were not confined to books, however. Charles Wullenbuecher, with the assistance of William Effinger, recently installed a new linoleum entrance to the library.

A joint announcement by the library and the Lake Villa Boy Scout Troop 64, reveals establishment of a memorial in memory of the late Eugene Prange by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Prange, Loon Lake Rd.

The memorial in part will consist of the beginning of a special collection of books useful to Boy Scouts. The collection is designed to enable Scouts to research and find references while working for merit badges leading to Life, Star and Eagle Scout awards.

The late Eugene Prange has for many years been an enthusiastic and active Scout. He was lost in the western wilderness while a college student a few years ago. His parents, the library, and Lake Villa Scout leaders feel the Eugene Prange Memorial Collection to be a fitting tribute. The Collection is open to residents who may wish to donate funds to make the memorial a growing collection.

Establishment of a second memorial was announced by Mrs. Belke, honoring the late Charles Petersen, Lake Villa merchant for many years. This memorial collection has been established by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Martin, the Lake Villa Lumber & Coal Co., Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hooper and Charles Wullenbuecher. Residents are invited to inspect this collection and augment it, if they so desire.

The librarian also reported on the third visit of the Northern Illinois Regional Library Bookmobile, Mar. 1. The service is provided by the state library and brings up to 200 books to the library every six weeks.

James Mondedone, librarian of this regional service, complimented the Lake Villa librarian on the cataloging and organization of book additions.

Exceptional Children.....

Many of the difficulties manifested in the slow progress of a youngster stem from various factors, some of which may result from areas of a child's life other than school. What is the total picture? What is the home environment, family situation, parental attitudes?

Who should investigate and initiate rehabilitation?

Should it be the classroom teacher, the principal, the school superintendent? Are they trained for this job? Do they have time for such extra duties?

Are we seeking the complete picture of the child so that remedial and constructive action may be taken?

The social worker — skilled and experienced — is the obvious person for the task. To this social worker goes the task of building the contact and then, if you will, gathering together the facts on which to build a dossier on the child, upon which the district's trained personnel may build a constructive future.

A teacher may need counseling on a child. A parent, long on love and understanding, but unaware of the professional guidance needed for the child, is advised of necessary procedures. All come within the realm of the social worker.

This social worker spends no set time with a child. Her efforts are attuned to needs. Some children are seen at regular intervals, others occasionally. Still others may require but a complete work-up to include medical and social history.

Qualified social workers up to the standards of Lake County's special program are scarce, according to L. V. Vuilleumot, director, who tags it "a task suited only to the trained and dedicated."

The district's social worker is Mrs. Mary Connley, headquartered in North Chicago District 64.

Mrs. Connley is an "old pro" among professionals in the field of social work. Her experience includes work with the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, Catholic Charities in Pittsburgh, Pa., Chicago Chapter, Red Cross in charge of area office, and North Chicago public schools.

She received basic social work training at Clark College and the Loyola University School of Social Work.

In disclosing the operations of Lake County's pioneering educational district, Director Vuilleumot urged all interested in handicapped and retarded children to contact: Special Education District of Lake County, Highland School, Libertyville, Ill.

Work of the special district in training & educating the multiply and physically handicapped child will be told in next week's News. Discover how one handicapped youngster, hidden away in a bedroom for years, on enrollment in school banded his teacher on the shins with his crutch. Yet, but a few hours later departed for home with a kiss.

Read how one youngster, who as a lad of five, couldn't sit up by himself, has now progressed to the stage where he refuses physical therapy so that he can prepare himself to keep up with your child when he enters high school next fall.

In this series, The Antioch News takes you inside the county's special education district, one of the few of its type in this country.

Girl Scout News

By Mrs. Pearl Kapell

Girl Scout Troop 201 (formerly Troop 6) of Grass Lake held a Court of Awards at the Grass Lake School last Friday night.

Mrs. Charlotte Queen, co-leader, presented proficiency badges to the following: Cook Badges to Pat Freels, Nancy Queen, Toni Lomma, Barbara Reband, Lenora Leider and Rayda Schafer; Drawing and Painting Badges to Toni Lomma, Nancy Queen, Dolores Andersen, Leslie Beese and Lynn Szymoniak; Personal Health Badges to Pat Freels, Nancy Queen, Toni Lomma, Lenora Leider and Rayda Schafer; Child Care Badges to Dolores Andersen, Leslie Beese, Barbara Reband, Rayda Schafer, Karen Mueller and Lynn Szymoniak. Lynn Szymoniak was awarded a Tree Badge and a Pen Pal Badge; Karen Mueller received a Traveller Badge and Dolores Andersen an Animal Raiser Badge.

Mrs. Barbara Beese, leader of Troop 201, then conducted an investiture ceremony for Georgia Goetz and Carol Werda, and spoke to mothers present about troop plans for the coming year. Mrs. Beese then presented First Class badges to Carol Hribar and Carol Frasier. The two had completed requirements for their badges under Mrs. Belle Hribar, former leader of the troop and now co-leader.

Girl Scouts then presented a pantomime of an old-time "melodrama" written, produced, directed and presented by themselves. With a piano accompaniment in true nickelodeon tradition played by Carol Goetz, "The Perils of Emily Pureheart" were enacted. Narrator Lynn Szymoniak provided the necessary background while the virtuous and anguished heroine, Emily, (played by Candy Horan) wept under the badgering of the heartless villain, Boris Blackburn (Dolores Andersen). To the great relief of the audience, poor little Emily was rescued in the nick of time by the dashing hero, Henry Hardship (Leslie Beese).

Virtue having triumphed again, refreshments which had been prepared by a group of the girls who are working for second class badges, under the direction of Mrs. Beese, were served.

This past week has been Girl Scout Week, marking the 48th birthday of Girl Scouting in America. Girl Scouts and their leaders and supporters have observed the week in many ways. Many of the troops, in uniform, have attended church together. The Marianne Shop in Antioch had a window display, as-

How Is Your Disaster IQ?

Would you know what to do to save your family and yourself if a disaster struck your community? The recent tornado in Chicago's southside and the approaching first anniversary of the floods in Libertyville, Fox Lake, and Gurnee point up the fact that natural disasters don't always occur hundreds or thousands of miles away and to someone else!

Disasters can happen anywhere, at any time. American Red Cross records show the nation's official disaster relief agency has given aid in more than 7,200 relief operations since 1881.

There is little any of us can do to prevent calamities of nature, but the Lake County chapter of the American Red Cross suggests the following preparedness steps as a means of lessening loss of life, personal injury, and property damage in time of disaster.

Flood Suggestions

5 — In strongly constructed schools and other buildings — Seek shelter in basement or stand against inside wall on lower floor. Stay out of gyms or auditoriums with large, unsupported roofs.

6 — In factory and plants — On receipt of tornado alert, post look-out to warn of storm's approach. Shut off electricity and fuel lines. Move workers to sections of buildings offering greatest protection.

Fire Prevention

1 — Collect combustible rubbish such as oily rags only in covered metal containers. Remove regularly.

2 — Be sure discarded matches and cigarettes are out! Never smoke in bed. Use safety matches. Keep them out of reach of children.

3 — Keep chimneys and furnaces clean and in good repair. Protect all nearby combustible surfaces.

Lowered Auto Coverage Seen By Top Firm

Lower car insurance rates are foreseen by the president of the nation's largest auto insurance company, which has already cut $0.

000,000 from its policyholders' premium bill.

Edward B. Rust, president of State Farm Mutual at Bloomington, said further cuts are likely in 1961 providing claim costs continue downward. Insurance rates and the traffic accident toll march hand-in-hand, he said, and stepped-up traffic efforts in many large cities are beginning to pay off in lower insurance costs for many motorists. In a few areas where accident experience has worsened, rates may go up, but the overall picture is good, he said.

Better insurance company experience in the nation's courtrooms is also helping to lower costs. Rust credited a recent trend toward more reasonable jury awards to growing public awareness of the relationship between damage verdicts and insurance rates.

Intensified competition within the industry is bringing other benefits to the insurance buyer, Rust said. In 1960, State Farm and several other major auto insurers developed facilities to provide voluntary insurance for "extra-hazardous" drivers, many of whom have traditionally sought insurance protection in the assigned risk plans. New rating plans designed to pinpoint the most equitable rate for the individual motorist was another industry development of 1960.

Rust's comments were made in his year-end report on 1960 operations of State Farm Mutual.

Local representative for State Farm is George Mazzuca.

Scores Apathy Of Public on Conservation

By Mrs. Pearl Kapell

CHANNEL LAKE, — "The nothing can be done about it" attitude of the public is the greatest problem facing conservationists, members of the Channel Lake Community Club were told last week.

At a meeting of the Community club, Richard Waters, president of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club, cited the steady deterioration of conditions of lakes and countryside over the years, and scored the public for its failure to act.

Greatest task for conservation groups will be to arouse the public from its apathy, he said. He also pointed up the need to remove the conservation department from political control and discussed possibility of a youth organization to assist the local conservation group in its work.

School Bowlers Hot

School bowlers in the Junior League set a hot pace last week with two 530 series, while 304 ranked entries in the Bantam League.

Phil Maplethorpe rolled 304 in the Bantam with games of 160-144.
